penalizing a student who is absent on the days the CSAPs are administered.

Be it enacted by the General Assembly of the State of Colorado:

SECTION 1. Legislative declaration. (1) The general assembly hereby finds that:

(a) In 2000, the general assembly enacted section 22-7-604, Colorado Revised Statutes, pursuant to which the department of education annually calculates academic performance ratings for each public school based on the scores attained by students enrolled in the school on the Colorado student assessment program tests;

(b) The formula for calculating the academic performance ratings includes weighting the students' scores based on the proficiency level reflected by each score;

(c) If a student is absent for one of the Colorado student assessment program tests, and does not subsequently make up the test, that student is assigned a zero score, which falls at the proficiency level of "unsatisfactory", which receives a weighting of -0.5;

(d) Further, if a teacher inadvertently fails to follow the department of education's guidelines in administering the test, all of the students in the class receive a zero score, again increasing the percentage of scores for that school that receive a weighting of -0.5;

(e) Thus, the formula for calculating academic performance ratings unfairly penalizes a school for each student who misses one of the Colorado student assessment program tests or for an inadvertent error in administering a test, regardless of why the student did not take the test and regardless of the student's actual knowledge level with respect to the subject matter;

1 (f) Parental choice in education has been a guiding tenet in 2 education policy in this state for several years and is a core value of the 3 statewide system of public education in Colorado;

4 (g) Parents are in the best position to decide what is best and
5 appropriate for their children's education, whether the decision pertains
6 to the educational setting in which the child should be placed, the 7 educational services the child should receive, or whether the child should 8 participate in statewide testing;

9 (h) While federal law requires schools to encourage universal
10 participation in the Colorado student assessment program tests, the state
11 must recognize and honor a parent's choice with regard to whether the 12 parent's child participates in the tests.

13 (2) The general assembly concludes, therefore, that a school's 14 overall academic performance rating should be an authentic reflection of 15 what the students in the school know and are able to demonstrate. In 16 calculating an overall academic performance rating, a school should not 17 be punished for students who are absent due to a parent's refusal to allow 18 his or her child to participate in the testing and a school should not be 19 punished because of an inadvertent failure to follow departmental 20 guidelines in administering the test. Thus, if a school's overall academic 21 performance rating is reduced due to student absences or an inadvertent 22 error in administering the test, the school should have the opportunity to 23 explain the rating to the parents of students enrolled in the school.
